British and Indonesians Battling For City

SOERABAJA HIT BY SHATTERING SEA, AIR BLOWS

PEACE RUMORS REPORTED

New Premier Said Ready To Confer With Dutch, British Officials

BATAVIA, Nov. 14—British warships, planes and artillery focused a shattering bombardment on the heart of Soerabaja today in a concerted attempt to blast out Indonesian nationalists making a determined stand in the east Java naval base.

Unconfirmed reports circulated that Sutan Sjahrir, new premier of the nationalist government, was ready to deal with the British and Dutch in an effort to end the bloody strife in Java.

Sjahrir, who in effect succeeded Dr. Sukarno as nationalist leader in a cabinet shakeup, was reported to be willing to study the issues between the natives and Dutch authorities. He was reported eager to cooperate with the British and Dutch, but there was no immediate sign how far he was willing to go.

The heaviest battle in Java since the Japanese overran the island raged unabated at Soerabaja. The Indonesian garrison bounced back with unexpected strength and ferocity just when the British thought victory was within their grasp.

Seizing the initiative in one sector of the battle-torn city on the shore of eastern Java, the natives launched a heavy attack. Official British reports from Soerabaja acknowledged that the resistance was "stiff and determined," but claimed the Indonesian attack was broken up by an artillery barrage after some infiltration into the foremost British positions.

Part of a Madras regiment arrived in Soerabaja to reinforce the British assault force.

British warships lying in the harbor, including the destroyers Carron and Caesar, trained their rifles on the core of Indonesian resistance in the center of the city. Royal Air Force planes struck at the government house and court of justice.

The newspaper Merdeka reported that the British were using incendiary bombs, but gave no details.

The Indonesians were reported carrying out the "scorched earth" policy, destroying all equipment and putting the torch to buildings in sectors they were forced to yield.

Some 8,000 refugees were said to have flocked into the British-occupied part of Soerabaja.

New Plans For Jews Denounced

Anglo-American Agreement On Commission Is Given Cold Reception

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—An Anglo-American agreement to set up a joint commission to study the problem of Palestine and Europe's Jews got a cold reception today from Jews, Arabs and American congressmen who have concerned themselves with the plight of Europe's homeless Jewry.

President Truman, who has asked Britain to admit 100,000 Jewish refugees to Palestine, revealed yesterday that he had agreed to a British compromise proposal to set up a commission to look into the whole Jewish question.

Both here and in Palestine, Jewish groups were quick to denounce the plan as a "British trap," and the Palestine Jewish council called a 12-hour general strike for today in protest. Arabs in Palestine also objected, though for opposite reasons.

Those favoring President Truman's original proposal, including congressmen and Jews, felt that the compromise would cause needless delay and doom European Jews to another winter of bitter privation.

This view was expressed by Sen. James M. Mead, D., N. Y., who said there would be no hope for a quick solution to the problem in the deliberations of such a commission. Rep. Emanuel Celler, D., N. Y., declared, "we've had Palestine investigations galore. There is no need for more. All have led to the inescapable conclusion that Palestine should be opened to unrestricted Jewish immigration."

A more bitter view was taken by one of the Zionist leaders here to seek action on aid for Jews in Europe, Rabbi Baruch Korff of New York city. He said the decision was a "death sentence for European Jewry."

Acting Senate President Kenneth McKellar, D., Tenn., said that since the commission had been decided on, the least it could do would be to act quickly for the sake of humanity.

Arab leaders in Palestine, who oppose further Jewish immigration into the Holy Land, were hostile to the latest move because it appeared to leave the door open to future modification of the limited immigration policy now in force.

Authorities Act To Prevent New Outbreaks Between Sailors And 'Gooks'

HONOLULU, Nov. 14—Honolulu's "Gooks" went into hiding today as armed shore patrols and police moved into the wrecked Damon tract district to prevent a recurrence of Monday night's mass rioting between American sailors and local hoodlums.

Only two isolated fights involving servicemen and civilians were reported tonight and the city generally was quiet. There was no sign of the Gooks—the Navy's name for the teen-aged Hawaiian rowdies who have been accused of waylaying and beating up sailors.

Police were called out to break up a fist fight between three sailors and a group of taxi cab drivers in downtown Honolulu, but they said the skirmish had nothing to do with the previous night's outbreak.

Another battle started near the Honolulu stadium after nightfall, but both sides retired with minor bruises and the incident was not reported to the police.

Naval guards and police officers set up a joint patrol around the Honolulu naval air station and the adjoining Damon tract section where the mass riots started, but both sides were inclined to blame each other for the disorders.

CONFERENCE ON ATOMIC POWER MAY END TODAY

Truman Meets With British And Canadian Prime Ministers Again

JOINT REPORT PLANNED

Policy Will Be Announced In Communique To Be Issued Thursday Or Friday

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—President Truman today begins the concluding phases of his atomic energy conferences with prime ministers Attlee of Great Britain and Mackenzie King of Canada.

The three leaders agreed to meet again at 2:30 p. m. (EST) for what may be the final discussion on how the secret of the atomic bomb, now held only by their governments, can best be utilized to promote international trust and cooperation.

Tomorrow or Friday they will issue a joint communique setting forth their atomic bomb policy.

Mr. Truman, Attlee and King conferred for two and a half hours at the White House yesterday following Attlee's address to congress. The White House again declined to issue any sort of progress report.

The meeting, however, was believed devoted to a preliminary drafting of the communique. Supporting this belief was the fact that high policy advisers were in attendance.

And for the first time, an American atomic bomb expert sat in on the discussion. He was Dr. Vannevar Bush, head of the office of scientific research and development. Also among the conferees were Secretary of State James F. Byrnes; the British and Canadian ambassadors; Adm. William D. Leahy, Mr. Truman's chief of staff; Sir John Anderson, chairman of the British atomic energy advisory commission; and T. L. Rowan, principal secretary to Attlee.

In the absence of official news, diplomatic sources ventured the guess that the final three-power policy would be patterned along the proposal advanced by Attlee.

The British leader proposed that all war secrets, including the atomic bomb, be placed into an international pool under the security council of the United Nations organization. Access to the pool would be limited to those nations which in turn pool their secrets and pledge full cooperation with UNO.

Attlee was said to feel that his proposal, by providing a way to cut Russia in on the atomic bomb secret, would go a long way toward improving relations between the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union.

THOUSANDS WILL WATCH BOY IN FINAL PRAYER

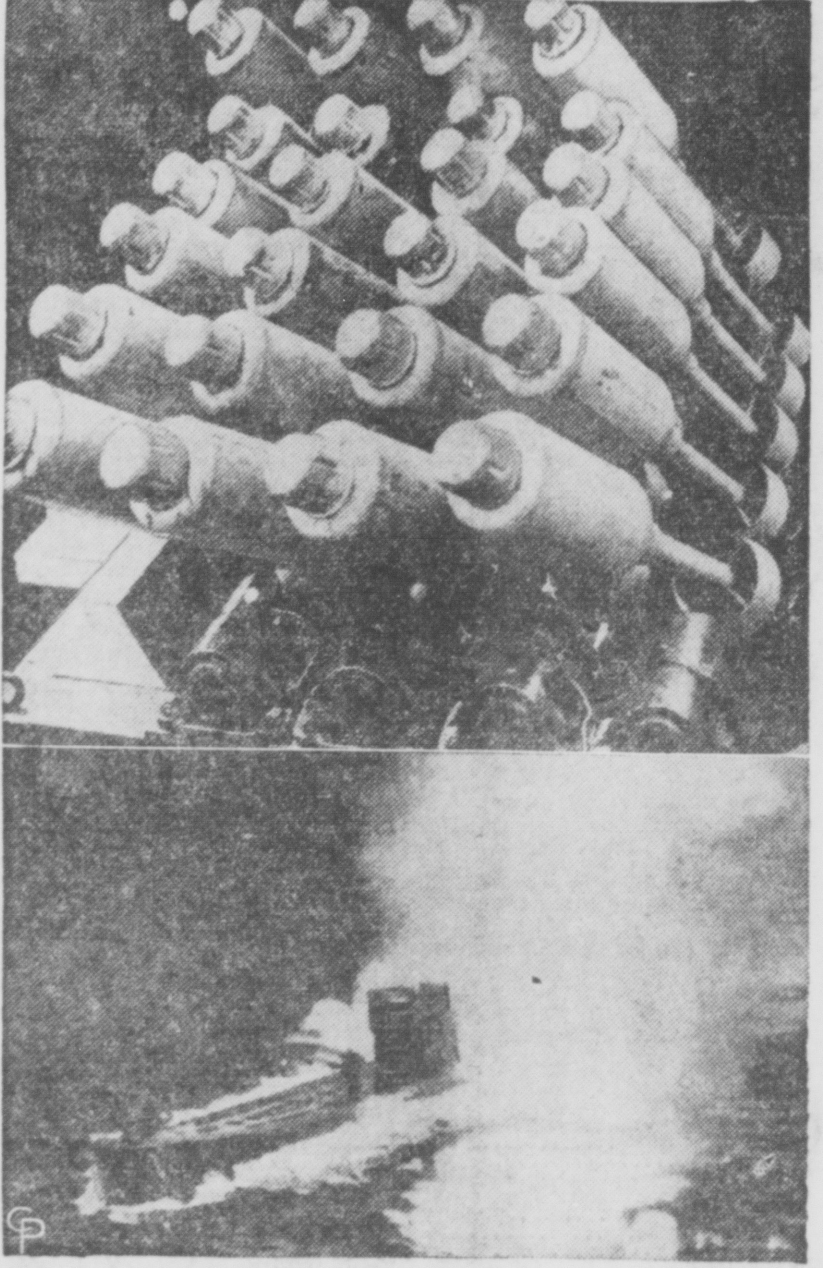

NEW YORK, Nov. 14—Police prepared today to handle more than 20,000 persons in the vicinity of a stone-littered Bronx lot where nine-year-old Joseph Vitolo Jr., said that the Virgin Mary had promised him "something wonderful" would happen tonight when she appears to him for the 17th and final time.

Police Inspector John Burke estimated that fully 20,000 persons were at the lot last night. Many had mistakenly computed it as the night Joseph's vision of the Virgin Mary had promised him, he said, that a well would appear on the stone ledge where the boy's neighbors had erected a makeshift altar.

Joseph explained that last night actually was the 16th night he had communicated with the vision but he said the final night would be tonight.

The devout, many of them crippled, milled through the streets as Joseph prayed at an orange-crate altar between 7 and 8 p. m. Hundreds had come from Philadelphia. (Continued on Page Two)

IT BEAT THE "WOLFPACK"

Called the most effective surface weapon directed against the marauding German submarine wolfpacks during the war, existence of the Navy's "hedgehog" has been revealed by the Navy department. The "hedgehog," technically the Mark 10 anti-submarine projector, replaced the depth charge. Operating on the rocket principle the device mounts 24 projectiles arranged in a bank. Mechanical details of the weapon are still secret. Invented by the British, it was manufactured in the U. S. by the Carrier corporation, Syracuse, N. Y. At top, the "hedgehog" is ready for action, while below, a Nazi U-boat is trapped. (International)

GOP Senator Asks If Secret 4-Power Pact Committed U. S. To War

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—Sen. Owen Brewster, R., Me., demanded to know today if the United States signed a secret, pre-Pearl Harbor agreement with Britain, China and The Netherlands on when to go to war against Japan.

Brewster, a member of the congressional Pearl Harbor investigating committee, said he would check state department records in an effort to find the answer.

He told reporters he had been unable to get committee counsel William D. Mitchell to look for the information in records of the late President Roosevelt. Mitchell, he said, felt it would be "an insult" to imply that the President would have signed any such agreement.

Brewster said he hoped to learn whether there was an "A-B-C-D" (America - British - Chinese - Dutch) agreement which committed the four powers to war against Japan if she crossed a certain geographical line in the Pacific.

He did not identify the geographical line. He said he didn't even know for fact that such an agreement existed. He argued, however, that nothing should stand in the way of the committee finding out.

The committee begins an important phase of its Pearl Harbor inquiry tomorrow when it opens (Continued on Page Two)

American Flier Beheaded, Others Tortured, Killed Filipino Testifies

MANILA, Nov. 14—Japanese soldiers beheaded one American flier and tortured and killed two others along with approximately 40 Filipinos on Cebu island March 26, a prosecution witness testified today at the war crimes trial of Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita.

Teodoro Sanchez, a Filipino who served as chauffeur for a Japanese officer on Cebu, said he saw the Japanese force the flier and five Filipinos to kneel over a hole and then behead them with sabers. Sanchez is charged with being a collaborator.

The Americans killed in the Cebu atrocities were identified as Paul Mansella, Lawrence Fox and —Scott (first name not known.)

Seven Japanese officers and men who have been arrested for the Cebu crimes will be arraigned at 9 a. m. tomorrow in courtroom No. 2, an army-constructed building near the commissioner's residence where Yamashita is being tried.

A second witness at today's trial, Lt. S. J. Larkins of the 110th graves registration company, testified to finding the bodies of two Americans in a foxhole on Cebu March 28. He said their hands (Continued on Page Two)

INDUSTRY MAY SUPPORT CIO'S WAGE PROPOSAL

Labor-Management Meeting Begins Speed-Up Drive; Progress Reported

REPLY DELAYED AGAIN

Industry May Accept CIO Plan On Wages Or Submit Substitute Proposal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—The labor-management conference began a speed-up drive today amid signs that industry delegates may swing behind the CIO proposal that the conference take a stand for higher wages.

Administration officials, including Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach, have told friends that they feel the conference has already made substantial progress in laying the groundwork for new methods of minimizing industrial disputes.

Conference Secretary George W. Taylor will submit reports today that will give the executive committee a chance to measure that progress. The committee will seek to eliminate any duplication of effort and make suggestions for speeding committee work.

Management delegates will ask the executive committee to delay action at least another day on the proposal by CIO President Philip Murray that the conference urge collective bargaining on higher wages within the framework of President Truman's latest wage-price policy statement.

Murray clarified the resolution last Thursday by stating that he does not want the conference to attempt to work out percentages or complicated schedules as to how much wages should be increased. He said he only wants an endorsement of collective bargaining on higher wages.

The industry representatives were unable to reach full agreement in framing their reply at a long session last night. They will meet again late today.

Ira Mosher, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, and Eric Johnston, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, disclosed that there was "substantially no disagreement" among industry delegates for an affirmative stand on wages.

The CIO insists that the conference would be unrealistic if it (Continued on Page Two)

Strikes At A Glance

By United Press
Strikes and shutdowns across the nation kept 283,000 workers away from their jobs today, according to a United Press count.

Automotive—Union officials appealed for fresh government mediation in the Ford Motor Company Windsor, Ont., strike, and reports circulated that General Motors' Buick assembly plant at Flint, Mich., would be closed. G-M's Fisher body plant at Flint was shut down last night.

Steel—The CIO steelworkers and U. S. Steel's President Benjamin Fairless continued a heated dispute over union demands for a $2-a-day wage increase, with Fairless restating his position that further discussion of the wage issue was fruitless unless OPA granted increases in steel prices.

Food—Strikes in the San Francisco bay area brought severe milk and bread shortages, as a bakery drivers walkout held up bread deliveries and a machinists strike shut down the major producer of milk cartons for the city.

Transportation—Employees of the Northland Greyhound Lines, Inc., serving seven Midwest states, voted overwhelmingly to join a walkout of Greyhound system employees in 27 eastern and southwestern states.

Car Prices To Be Near 1942 Level

OPA Spokesman Believes Bowles Will Follow Original Plans

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—A high government official said today that OPA retail ceilings on new autos "will probably be around 1942 levels."

That was OPA's original intention. More recently, however, price officials have indicated that both retail and manufacturers prices might be "considerably above" 1942 prices due to higher production costs.

The official said such reports were misleading. "I believe," he said, "that when OPA does announce its (retail) ceilings will find they are around 1942 levels." Manufacturers prices are expected to be up, however, with retail dealers being required to absorb much of the added cost.

Price Administrator Chester Bowles expects to announce the OPA schedule of retail and manufacturers prices and dealer discounts for new cars tomorrow unless something happens to make him change his mind. He agreed yesterday to postpone the announcement until he has examined the results of a dealers' survey, provided the survey is made public by tomorrow.

The dealers are trying to persuade Bowles to alter his plan to lower their "discount margins" approximately four or five per cent or to get congress to force Bowles to do so. Bowles, resisting both (Continued on Page Two)

37TH SCHEDULED TO START HOME

Gov. Lausche Told Buckeye Division Will Leave Manila Thursday

COLUMBUS, Nov. 14—The 37th (Buckeye) Division starts home from the Philippines tomorrow, according to a telephone statement made yesterday by Secretary of War Robert Patterson to Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

Veterans of 42 months in the Pacific who lugged equipment up many a gangplank during the 37th's campaigns will do it for the last time before Nov. 25, by which time the entire division, 15,000 strong, should have embarked for "state-side" and home. The point of embarkation is Manila.

Patterson's telephone call came after the governor had telegraphed to ask that the division be brought home as soon as possible. Governor Lausche noted the division's long overseas service.

When the 37th was mobilized in 1940, it consisted entirely of Ohio National Guardsmen, but at present there are not more than 2,000 Ohioans in the division. The rest (Continued on Page Two)

HERSHEY URGES INDUSTRY TO USE VET SKILLS

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 14—Selective Service Director Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey called on industry today to utilize the skills required by veterans in their war training.

He spoke at the tenth annual meeting of the industrial hygiene foundation, held in the Mellon Institute.

"Industry need not regard its relationship with the returning veteran only as a duty, but also as an opportunity to use the veteran's fitness, training and eagerness to participate in American production," he said.

"This was a mechanized war," Gen. Hershey said, "and the services have trained thousands of men to work with machines, to operate them and to repair them. Many skills used in the services can be used in industry."

Reports Say Both Sides Seem Anxious Not To Involve American Forces

CHUNGKING, Nov. 14—Powerful Chinese government forces landed in the northern port of Tsingtao under the covering guns of American Marines and naval units today in a full-scale drive to clear the Communists from Shantung peninsula.

The invasion of Shantung carried Generalissimo's Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalist troops into the main stronghold of the famed Communist eighth route army and threatened to touch off the first major battle of China's undeclared civil war.

The Communists, who already controlled all the peninsula ports except Tsingtao, were massed in great strength outside the city under orders to fight any advance by the Nationalists.

United Press Staff Correspondent Richard W. Johnston reported that the first elements of Chiang's eighth "sponsored" army landed unopposed from American naval transports at daybreak.

They moved out swiftly through a protective cordon of 12,000 U. S. sixth division Marines, apparently under orders from American naval and Marine commanders to get clear of the port immediately.

The opposing armies included some of the best fighting divisions in the Communist and Nationalist line-ups, although at least part of the eighth route army was reported to have been pulled out some time ago to reinforce the Communist defenses of Manchuria.

The nationalists, under Lt. Gen. Tang Feng, were picked veterans of the long campaigns against the Japanese in South China. Johnston said they went ashore without tanks or heavy artillery, but were well-equipped with American small arms, mortars, flame-throwers and bazookas.

Vice Adm. Daniel C. Barbey, commander of U. S. amphibious forces in North China, and Maj. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, commander of the sixth Marines, were on hand to supervise the landing. The Nationalist army, rushed up from Kowloon to occupy Shantung for Chiang's government, was expected to complete its debarkation before daybreak Thursday.

Both sides appeared anxious to avoid embroiling the Marines in their civil war and observers believed there would be no major clash until the Nationalists were clear of the city.

THREE NATIONS WANT SUB FOR GUSTAV KRUPP

NUENBERG, Nov. 14—The American, French and Russian prosecutors filed formal motions today for dismissal of the war crimes charges against the ailing Gustav Krupp and substitution of his son Alfred on the list of Nazi defendants.

The three prosecutors asked the United Nations war crimes tribunal to permit the substitution, although they conceded it might delay the start of the mass trials by a week or 10 days.

They argued that the elder Krupp, head of the notorious German munitions clan, was too ill to be brought to trial.

The British prosecutor opposed the motion because of the delay involved and asked that Gustav Krupp be tried in absentia.

The tribunal adjourned after considering the motions and announced that its decision would be made known "later."

The Krupps' defense counsel joined the three allied prosecutors in urging dismissal of the indictment against Gustav. But he opposed substitution of Alfred and asserted that he would have to ask a postponement of at least 30 days if the latter motion was granted.

Police Inspector John Burke estimated that fully 20,000 persons were at the lot last night. Many had mistakenly computed it as the night Joseph's vision of the Virgin Mary had promised him, he said, that a well would appear on the stone ledge where the boy's neighbors had erected a makeshift altar.

Joseph explained that last night actually was the 16th night he had communicated with the vision but he said the final night would be tonight.

The devout, many of them crippled, milled through the streets as Joseph prayed at an orange-crate altar between 7 and 8 p. m. Hundreds had come from Philadelphia.

IT BEAT THE "WOLFPACK"

Called the most effective surface weapon directed against the marauding German submarine wolfpacks during the war, existence of the Navy's "hedgehog" has been revealed by the Navy department. The "hedgehog," technically the Mark 10 anti-submarine projector, replaced the depth charge. Operating on the rocket principle the device mounts 24 projectiles arranged in a bank. Mechanical details of the weapon are still secret. Invented by the British, it was manufactured in the U. S. by the Carrier corporation, Syracuse, N. Y. At top, the "hedgehog" is ready for action, while below, a Nazi U-boat is trapped.

GOP Senator Asks If Secret 4-Power Pact Committed U.S. To War

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—Sen. Owen Brewster, R., Me., demanded to know today if the United States signed a secret, pre-Pearl Harbor agreement with Britain, China and The Netherlands on when to go to war against Japan.

Brewster, a member of the congressional Pearl Harbor investigating committee, said he would check state department records in an effort to find the answer.

He told reporters he had been unable to get committee counsel William D. Mitchell to look for the information in records of the late

Filipino Testifies

MANILA, Nov. 14—Japanese soldiers beheaded one American flier and tortured and killed two others along with approximately 40 Filipinos on Cebu island March 26, a prosecution witness testified today at the war crimes trial of Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita.

Teodoro Sanchez, a Filipino who served as chauffeur for a Japanese officer on Cebu, said he saw the Japanese force the flier and five Filipinos to kneel over a hole and then behead them with sabers. Sanchez is charged with being a collaborator.

The Americans killed in the Cebu atrocities were identified as Paul Mansella, Lawrence Fox and Scott (first name not known).

Seven Japanese officers and men who have been arrested for the Cebu crimes will be arraigned at 9 a. m. tomorrow in courtroom No. 2, an army-constructed building near the commissioner's residence where Yamashita is being tried.

A second witness at today's trial, Lt. S. J. Larkins of the 110th graves registration company, testified to finding the bodies of two Americans in a foxhole on Cebu March 28. He said their hands

INDUSTRY MAY SUPPORT CIO'S WAGE PROPOSAL

Labor-Management Meeting
Begins Speed-Up Drive;
Progress Reported

REPLY DELAYED AGAIN

Industry May Accept CIO
Plan On Wages Or Submit
Substitute Proposal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—The labor-management conference began a speed-up drive today amid signs that industry delegates may swing behind the CIO proposal that the conference take a stand for higher wages.

Administration officials, including Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach, have told friends that they feel the conference has already made substantial progress in laying the groundwork for new methods of minimizing industrial disputes.

Conference Secretary George W. Taylor will submit reports today that will give the executive committee a chance to measure that progress. The committee will seek to eliminate any duplication of effort and make suggestions for speeding committee work.

Management delegates will ask the executive committee to delay action at least another day on the proposal by CIO President Philip Murray that the conference urge collective bargaining on higher wages within the framework of President Truman's latest wage-price policy statement.

Murray clarified the resolution last Thursday by stating that he does not want the conference to attempt to work out percentages or complicated schedules as to how much wages should be increased. He said he only wants an endorsement of collective bargaining on higher wages.

The industry representatives were unable to reach full agreement in framing their reply at a long session last night. They will meet again late today.

Ira Mosher, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, and Eric Johnston, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, disclosed that there was "substantially no disagreement" among industry delegates for an affirmative stand on wages.

The CIO insists that the conference would be unrealistic if it

Strikes At A Glance

By United Press
Strikes and shutdowns across the nation kept 283,000 workers away from their jobs today, according to a United Press count.

Automotive—Union officials appealed for fresh government mediation in the Ford Motor Company Windsor, Ont., strike, and reports circulated that General Motors Buick assembly plant at Flint, Mich., would be closed. G-M's Fisher body plant at Flint was shut down last night.

Steel—The CIO steelworkers and U. S. Steel's President Benjamin Fairless continued a heated dispute over union demands for a $2-a-day wage increase, with Fairless restating his position that further discussion of the wage issue was fruitless unless OPA granted increases in steel prices.

Food—Strikes in the San Francisco bay area brought severe milk and bread shortages, as a bakery drivers' walkout held up bread deliveries and a machinists strike shut down the major producer of milk cartons for the city.

Transportation—Employees of the Northland Greyhound Lines, Inc., serving seven Midwest states, voted overwhelmingly to join a walkout of Greyhound system employees in 27 eastern and southwestern states.

Car Prices To Be Near 1942 Level

OPA Spokesman Believes
Bowles Will Follow
Original Plans

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—A high government official said today that OPA retail ceilings on new autos "will probably be around 1942 levels."

That was OPA's original intention. More recently, however, price officials have indicated that both retail and manufacturers prices might be "considerably above" 1942 prices due to higher production costs.

The official said such reports were misleading. "I believe," he said, "that when OPA does announce its (retail) ceilings you will find they are around 1942 levels." Manufacturers prices are expected to be up, however, with retail dealers being required to absorb much of the added cost.

Price Administrator Chester Bowles expects to announce the OPA schedule of retail and manufacturers prices and dealer discounts for new cars tomorrow unless something happens to make him change his mind. He agreed yesterday to postpone the announcement until he has examined the results of a dealers' survey, provided the survey is made public by tomorrow.

The dealers are trying to persuade Bowles to alter his plan to lower their "discount margins" approximately four or five per cent or to get congress to force Bowles to do so. Bowles, resisting both

37TH SCHEDULED TO START HOME

Gov. Lausche Told Buckeye
Division Will Leave
Manila Thursday

COLUMBUS, Nov. 14—The 37th (Buckeye) Division starts home from the Philippines tomorrow, according to a telephone statement made yesterday by Secretary of War Robert Patterson to Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

Veterans of 42 months in the Pacific who lugged equipment up many a gangplank during the 37th's campaigns will do it for the last time before Nov. 25, by which time the entire division, 15,000 strong, should have embarked for "state-side" and home. The point of embarkation is Manila.

Patterson's telephone call came after the governor had telegraphed to ask that the division be brought home as soon as possible. Governor Lausche noted the division's long overseas service.

When the 37th was mobilized in 1940, it consisted entirely of Ohio National Guardsmen, but at present there are not more than 2,000 Ohioans in the division. The rest

HERSHEY URGES INDUSTRY TO USE VET SKILLS

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 14—Selective Service Director Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey called on industry today to utilize the skills required by veterans in their war training.

He spoke at the tenth annual meeting of the industrial hygiene foundation, held in the Mellon institute.

"Industry need not regard its relationship with the returning veteran only as a duty, but also as an opportunity to use the veteran's fitness, training and eagerness to participate in American production," he said.

"This was a mechanized war," Gen. Hershey said, "and the services have trained thousands of men to work with machines, to operate them and to repair them. Many skills used in the services can be used in industry."

disclosed number of Japanese troops who had been permitted to keep their arms to guard the railway line running inland from Tsingtao.

The Tsingtao landing coincided with the arrival of another Chinese government army—the 52nd—some 250 miles farther north at Chinwangtao, nine miles south of the embattled Manchurian gateway town of Shanhaikwan.

Unconfirmed reports said Shanhaikwan, eastern terminus of China's great wall, already had fallen to the Nationalists, opening the way for a full-scale drive into Manchuria.

Almost 500 miles inland, the Communist armies were reported over-running a vast area of Suiyuan province against relatively feeble opposition from the poorly equipped Nationalist forces there.

About 80 per cent of the province was understood to be in Communist hands and its two main cities, Kweisui and Pantow, were under siege by the Reds.

Reports from Suiyuan said the Communists were battering both cities with heavy artillery fire and were threatening to level them with aerial bombardment unless they capitulated.

These reports hinted the Communists might have captured a number of Japanese bombing planes and tanks last August when they seized the huge Japanese supply dumps at Kalgan.

The equipment taken there, according to one possibly exaggerated account, was sufficient to maintain an army of 200,000 men in the field for 10 years.

Nationalist sources in Chungking said the Communists already had appointed a Mongol extremist named Yun Tseh as governor of Suiyuan in an attempt to win Mongol support for their side.

MILLERS REMAIN 'CRITICAL' AT CITY HOSPITAL

Mr. and Mrs. R. Earl Miller, Chillicothe, who suffered skull fractures in an accident on route 104 Tuesday, remained unconscious and in a critical condition at Berger hospital early Wednesday afternoon.

Doctor's examination during the morning revealed that Mr. Miller, 55, was in a more dangerous condition than his wife, Mrs. Miller was reported a little improved since Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller are widely-known in Chillicothe and to many residents of Pickaway county. They have been active in the American Legion and other veteran organization work at Chillicothe for several years. Mr. Miller is a member of the Kiwanis club and operator of a cafe at Hickory street and Burbridge avenue. They are the parents of two children, Lt. Robert Earl Miller Jr., pilot, serving overseas, and Miss Mary Lou Miller, U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Good Samaritan hospital, Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller were injured when they were thrown out of their car against the concrete bridge just south of Wayne township school after their car had skidded on the wet road on the dangerous dip curve which bends into the bridge Tuesday at about 9:30 a. m.

BABY BORN WHEN TRAIN HITS CAR GIVEN CHANCE

PUNKSUTAWNEY, Pa., Nov. 14—A mother and her son to whom she gave birth in a burning automobile after it was struck by a train were given a good chance to recover today. Meanwhile, funeral services were being arranged for the woman's 21-year-old daughter who died in the wreckage.

The mother, Mrs. Frank Martz, 39, of Ringgold, Pa., gave birth to the infant while the flaming car was being dragged 600 feet by the freight train. Engineer William C. Cassell, of Pittsburgh, and another crewman, pulled Mrs. Martz, the baby, and her husband from the car.

They were unable, however, to free Mary Martz, 21.

Attendants at Adrian hospital here said Mrs. Martz suffered fractures of both legs and right arm. The infant suffered a face injury and burns on one side.

The accident occurred yesterday while Martz was driving his wife to the hospital.

public hearings. A host of high government officials, present and past, are slated to testify during the hearings.

Brewster indicated displeasure with Mitchell's attitude on the matter of checking the Roosevelt files. He said he now would turn the inquiry into state department files.

"We've requested records of the state department bearing on all things of that sort and will continue to do so," Brewster said. "I have received intimations that they (the state department) have made an agreement that certain papers will be kept secret for 15 years."

Brewster said he did not know what those records included but anticipated they would be "any papers the state department decides."

A state department spokesman denied, however, that there was any secrecy rule applicable to the Pearl Harbor investigation.

"According to President Truman's order everything in the state department files pertinent to the investigation will be made available to the committee on request," the spokesman said.

Brewster said the four Republican members of the 10-man committee have asked the state department also for all records on the Tyler Kent case.

Kent, former code clerk in the United States embassy at London, was convicted in British courts of violating British war-time security laws. He allegedly disclosed secret diplomatic data. He recently completed his British prison term.

There have been some reports that Kent had knowledge of coded messages between Mr. Roosevelt and Winston Churchill before the latter became prime minister of Britain.

Some state department records already have been made available to committee members.

Sen. Homer Ferguson, R., Mich., had a stack of them on his desk when reporters visited his office yesterday afternoon. He refused to discuss their contents but complained that they hadn't become available long enough before the start of public hearings.

Reps. Frank B. Keefe, R., Wis., and Bertrand W. Gearhart, R., Calif., the other two Republican members of the committee, interviewed FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover yesterday. They told reporters afterward that they wanted to know why the Army and Navy in Hawaii weren't on the same full alert as the FBI at the time of the Japanese attack.

They said Hoover alerted his agents in Hawaii on Nov. 27—the day after former secretary of state Cordell Hull sent his 10-point terms to the Japanese.

"Mr. Hoover had concluded from information available to the FBI on Nov. 27—that after the Hull message went to Japan—that war was imminent," Keefe said.

"The question is, if he did that with his gang, why couldn't a similar order have gone to the Army and Navy?"

Keefe said he and Gearhart would insist that Hoover and his Honolulu agents appear as witnesses before the committee.

A tentative witness list issued last weekend contained the name of Robert Schriver, FBI agent at Honolulu at the time of the attack. Hoover was not included.

Gearhart said Hoover acted on the basis of information available in Washington, including intercepted Japanese messages. He did not identify the content of those messages.

"The messages intercepted on Nov. 26 were interpreted by Hoover as indicative of military action by the Japanese," Gearhart said.

"If the Army and Navy had been as aware of the importance of these messages, there wouldn't have been any necessity for a Pearl Harbor investigation."

VICTORY PARADE BID DECLINED BY EISENHOWER

CHICAGO, Nov. 14—Plans for a spectacular welcome for General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower were cancelled today after the war hero notified American Legion convention officials that he could not take part in their "victory parade."

Eisenhower's message said that "press of military affairs" would prevent him from participating in the demonstration but that he would make "the most important speech of my career" at a Legion national commander's banquet next Tuesday evening.

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz has been invited to share honors with Eisenhower at the Legion's "victory day" celebration, and both commanders will be awarded the Legion's distinguished service medal.

SOLDIER IN GERMANY FILES DIVORCE SUIT

A petition for divorce charging his wife with unfaithfulness has been filed in common pleas court by a Pickaway county soldier now serving with the Army of Occupation in Germany.

The soldier, John R. Wright, in asking for a divorce on charges of gross neglect from Alethia White Wright, states in his petition that "defendant left the home of plaintiff's parents, where she had been making her home during plaintiff's absence in the Army, on September 9, 1945 and has since then informed plaintiff that she does not expect to continue as plaintiff's wife, that defendant is, at the present time, associating with another man or men."

Plaintiff states that defendant is now living in Columbus. The couple was married February 1, 1940, at Lima. There are no children.

In another divorce suit filed, Basil C. Mannon Jr. charges Dorothy C. Mannon, a minor, with adultery. Mrs. Mannon resides at 115½ West Main street with her mother. The couple was married in Circleville, February 2, 1943 and there are no children.

failed to take notice of the cause of most industrial disputes.

Johnston said the industry reply may be (1) acceptance of the CIO resolution plus the clarification stated by Murray; (2) in the form of an amendment to the resolution; or (3) a substitute proposal.

Even if industry votes with CIO, the combined 11 ballots would not be sufficient to adopt the proposal unless at least one of the other five labor votes is cast for the resolution.

The American federation of labor, President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers and the independent railway brotherhoods are opposed to the CIO resolution. Together they have five votes, just enough to prevent approval by the required three-fourths or 12 members of the committee.

Meanwhile independent unions, consumers and other groups not directly represented at the conference get their first chance to be heard today. A special committee headed by Dr. Frank P. Graham, war labor board public member and president of the University of North Carolina, opened three days of public hearings to give these organizations an opportunity to submit their ideas on how industry and labor can minimize industrial strife.

HONOLULU QUIET AFTER RIOTING

alleged police laxity and other factors involved, but he refused to make a statement pending completion of his inquiry.

The riots started shortly before midnight Monday when a mob of about 1,000 Navy men, including some officers, stormed through the Damon tract district in search of the Gooks.

Armed with bayonets, clubs, rocks and hammers, they smashed windows, overturned police cars and stoned houses. Marine, Navy and police riot squads restored order.

The mob returned shortly after midnight, but was dispersed again by the authorities and 50 of its members were arrested. They were released later for questioning by their naval superiors.

Naval air station spokesmen charged that local police had failed to take any action on repeated complaints filed by servicemen against youthful rowdies in the Damon tract district. They asserted that 30 sailors were beaten up there in the past month.

"We protested to the police only last Thursday," one spokesman said, "but nothing was done about it."

Police Chief W. S. Gabrielson countered with the assertion that the riot never would have occurred "if the Navy cooperated the way they said they would."

The only fatality reported from Monday night's melee was that of an onlooker, 75-year-old Joseph Guthrie, who died of a heart attack while watching sailors hurl rocks into a neighbor's house.

Most of the hoodlums—who have vanished from the streets in the past 24 hours—are barefaced Hawaiian toughs who wear "zoot" pants with shirttails hanging outside.

dealer and congressional pressure, accused the dealers of "the greatest single pressure group operations since OPA was established."

The dealers claim the OPA plan will cut their profits so low it will force them to close their doors. Bowles maintains that with used car trade-ins now netting a resale profit instead of the customary loss and with a heavy sales volume expected, the dealers will come out of it with a greater overall profit than ever in spite of the reduced markup.

The dealers, represented by the National Automobile Dealers association, say they have conducted a survey showing Bowles is way off on his used car figures. They have promised to submit their own figures tomorrow to the house small business committee.

There have been some reports that Kent had knowledge of coded messages between Mr. Roosevelt and Winston Churchill before the latter became prime minister of Britain.

Some state department records already have been made available to committee members.

Sen. Homer Ferguson, R. Mich., had a stack of them on his desk when reporters visited his office yesterday afternoon. He refused to discuss their contents but complained that they hadn't become available long enough before the start of public hearings.

Reps. Frank B. Keefe, R. Wis., and Bertrand W. Gearhart, R. Calif., the other two Republican members of the committee, interviewed FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover yesterday. They told reporters afterward that they wanted to know why the Army and Navy in Hawaii weren't on the same full alert as the FBI at the time of the Japanese attack.

They said Hoover alerted his agents in Hawaii on Nov. 27—the day after former secretary of state Cordell Hull sent his 10-point terms to the Japanese.

"Mr. Hoover had concluded from information available to the FBI on Nov. 27—after the Hull message went to Japan—that war was imminent," Keefe said.

"The question is, if he did that with his gang, why couldn't a similar order have gone to the Army and Navy?"

Keefe said he and Gearhart would insist that Hoover and his Honolulu agents appear as witnesses before the committee.

Gearhart said Hoover acted on the basis of information available in Washington, including intercepted Japanese messages. He did not identify the content of those messages.

"The messages intercepted on Nov. 26 were interpreted by Hoover as indicative of military action by the Japanese," Gearhart said.

"If the Army and Navy had been as aware of the importance of these messages, there wouldn't have been any necessity for a Pearl Harbor investigation."

VICTORY PARADE BID DECLINED BY EISENHOWER

CHICAGO, Nov. 14—Plans for a spectacular welcome for General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower were cancelled today after the war hero notified American Legion convention officials that he could not take part in their "victory parade."

Eisenhower's message said that "press of military affairs" would prevent him from participating in the demonstration but that he would make "the most important speech of my career" at a Legion national commander's banquet next Tuesday evening.

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz has been invited to share honors with Eisenhower at the Legion's "victory day" celebration, and both commanders will be awarded the Legion's distinguished service medal.

SOLDIER IN GERMANY FILES DIVORCE SUIT

A petition for divorce charging his wife with unfaithfulness has been filed in common pleas court by a Pickaway county soldier now serving with the Army of Occupation in Germany.

The soldier, John R. Wright, in asking for a divorce on charges of gross neglect from Aletha White Wright, states in his petition that "defendant left the home of plaintiff's parents, where she had been making her home during plaintiff's absence in the Army, on September 9, 1945 and has since then informed plaintiff that she does not expect to continue as plaintiff's wife, that defendant is, at the present time, associating with another man or men."

Plaintiff states that defendant is now living in Columbus. The couple was married February 1, 1940, at Lima. There are no children.

In another divorce suit filed, Basil C. Mannon Jr. charges Dorothy C. Mannon, a minor, with adultery. Mrs. Mannon resides at 115 1/2 West Main street with her mother. The couple was married in Circleville, February 2, 1943 and there are no children.

failed to take notice of the cause of most industrial disputes.

Johnston said the industry reply may be (1) acceptance of the CIO resolution plus the clarification stated by Murray; (2) in the form of an amendment to the resolution; or (3) a substitute proposal.

Even if industry votes with CIO, the combined 11 ballots would not be sufficient to adopt the proposal unless at least one of the other five labor votes is cast for the resolution.

The American federation of labor, President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers and the independent railway brotherhoods are opposed to the CIO resolution. Together they have five votes, just enough to prevent approval by the required three-fourths or 12 members of the committee.

Meanwhile independent unions, consumers and other groups not directly represented at the conference get their first chance to be heard today. A special committee headed by Dr. Frank P. Graham, war labor board public member and president of the University of North Carolina, opened three days of public hearings to give these organizations an opportunity to submit their ideas on how industry and labor can minimize industrial strife.

BUNNIES RAISE HAVOC

HOBART, Ind.—Bugs Benny, the happy-go-lucky bunny of the funnies, never got in half the trouble his less known relatives did in Hobart. In fact, Mayor Fred Rose and the city council have worked themselves into a "rabbit fever" trying to handle the many complaints of irate residents, who claim wild bunnies are wrecking lawns, shrubs and even fruit trees. Mayor Rose thought of a rabbit hunt, but the city attorney reminded him: "No hunting inside city limits."

FARM ACREAGE INCREASE IN OHIO IS NOTED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14—Ohio farm acreage increased three-tenths of one per cent, or 62,553 acres, during the last five years, preliminary census figures of the Department of Commerce showed.

At the same time, the average number of acres of Ohio farms has dropped from 97.5 in 1940 to 93.7 acres in 1945, or 4.1 per cent.

The number of farms in the state had decreased by 3.6 per cent during the period to 233,783.

The Ohio trend generally approximates the national trend where with about 86,000 fewer farms, there were nearly 82,000,000 more acres in farms, the census report showed.

Preliminary totals in the national picture were 1,142,817 acres comprising 6,010,572 farms in 1945 or an increase in acreage of 7.7, and decline of 1.4 in the number of farms, as compared to 1940.

UP AND DOWN BROADWAY

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 — You might think it about time for a fractional decline in the juvenile hysteria that attends Frank Sinatra's annual engagements at the Paramount theater, but you couldn't prove it by what's going on there now. The fever is higher than ever, if that is possible.

The staff of the Paramount shudders whenever it sees Sinatra's name go up on the marquee. The employees know that as far as they are concerned the worst weeks of the year are ahead, no matter how high the box office receipts may go. Trying to cope with the teen-agers, who come early and stay late, is a hair-graying occupation.

The candy stand attendant was moaning low yesterday. Her business is excellent, of course, because a lot of the kids buy candy to sustain them through two or more shows so they won't have to go out and eat. But she's right where she can hear all of the screaming and shouting in the auditorium and the din gives her a constant headache.

It was almost impossible to enjoy the picture because of the Sinatra fans. They seemed to pay little attention to the film and during its run various cliques and individuals were talking back and forth, visiting and just generally passing the time until Frankie's appearance.

Real bedlam ensued when the singer took over the stage. The bobby-soxers stood up all over the place, grownups shouted for them to sit down, there was excited screaming by girls and the end result was that Sinatra was darned near inaudible and invisible to a lot of the patrons.

The management has learned to be prepared for unhappy patrons. Those who leave in disgust because they can't enjoy the show get their money back without question. They're simply asked when they came in and if their answers indicate that they haven't had a chance to see the stage show the refund is made promptly. I saw more than a score make such collections in a short time.

It would seem that a lot of the spontaneity has gone out of the Sinatra demonstrations although they are as loud or louder than ever. You get the impression that a great deal of it is a result of the kids feeling that it is expected of them. One tall youth, possibly 18 years old, was among those who leaped to his feet in the auditorium during Frank's appearance. An exasperated customer behind him finally asked him to sit down and be quiet. He looked around reproachfully at the customer and said, "well, the rest of them are doing it aren't they?" He didn't sit down. The customer left.

Sinatra is holed up in the theater from about 9 a. m. to 11 p. m. Rarely does he attempt to go out between shows and when he does have to enter or leave the theater he no longer uses the customary stage door entrance on West Forty-Fourth street. He uses a private entrance on West Forty-Third. He's bearing up well. His stage poise is vastly superior to what it was a year ago. He doesn't let the antics bother him.

One of the persons who paid her way into the Paramount was Ruth Lowe, author of the famous song "I'll Never Smile Again," which had everyone weeping in his beer a few seasons back. Much to her surprise she found the Pied Pipers, a singing group in the stage show, using her (Continued on Page Six)

Heart Damage Chief Danger Of Rheumatic Fever Attacks

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WE ARE hearing more and more about rheumatic fever. One of the main symptoms of this condition is inflammation of the joints. This has caused many persons to look upon it as a local infection of the joints, but the symptoms of this disease indicate that it is a general infection.

According to Doctor Robert A. Black of Chicago, the principal symptoms include fatigue, which may be noticed by the teacher or mother. The child tires easily and usually is pale. His pulse rate is more rapid than normal, often ranging between 110 and 130, when the normal pulse rate in a child of seven to ten years of age is only about 90.

High Temperature
At the beginning of the infection, the temperature may be as high as 103 degrees. However, it soon returns to normal in the morning and rises to 99.2 or 100 degrees in the afternoon or evening. This type of fever may continue for months getting higher when the disease becomes more active. Poor appetite is a symptom which is often present. This may be improved by rest.

Often parents nag the child to eat but this does no good, and often makes the appetite worse. Anorexia, a symptom which may be present is failure to gain weight, or even a loss of weight may occur.

Respiratory Infection
Children with rheumatic fever appear to be susceptible to respiratory infections such as colds or sore throat, and every effort must be made to prevent these infections, since that may cause the rheumatic fever to flare up. So-called growing pains which are described as aching in the legs, may be due to rheumatic fever, particularly if they occur at night and affect the thigh and calf of the leg. These pains usually disappear after the circulation is speeded up through some sort of physical activity.

The chief danger in rheumatic fever lies in the fact that it frequently leads to damage to the heart. Evidence of this damage may be only a heart murmur which is an abnormal sound heard during the beating of the heart. At first the murmur may come and go, but later on it may become permanent.

Treating With Salicylates
In treating rheumatic fever the salicylates are frequently employed under the directions of the physician. Rest is also important. The salicylates, according to Doctor Black, should be administered daily for one month during and after each recurrent upper respiratory infection.

Sulfonamide drugs may also be used to aid in the prevention of respiratory infections in certain instances.

Whenever symptoms like those of rheumatic fever occur there should be no delay in having the child carefully studied to determine if the disorder is present so that it may be properly treated.

PROPER PLAY of many No Trump hands is a good deal like the reading of captions under group pictures in newspapers. It is largely from left to right in the crucial parts. That is, usually the opening leader, at the declarer's left, starts his long suit and comes pretty close to getting it set up. If that occurs, then any secondary finesses, against queens or jacks, should usually be taken from the left to right. The idea is that, if the man at the right wins such a finesse, he may be unable to return the suit which is established in his partner's hand.

If South had opened with 1-No Trump when vulnerable, his bid would have shown North enough to hop directly to game. He really had enough for a vulnerable No Trump bid.

What absolutely clear-cut principle should guide South in playing for 3-No Trumps here if West leads the unbreakable club singleton?

Now notice how all the doubtful play was from left to right. West led the club 5 to the A, took the returned 8 with the K and cleared the suit with the 2 to the Q. At once began the left-to-right business, with the spade A and a finesse of the J to the Q. Not liking to open other suits for South, East returned the spade 9 to the K, and the 10 also was scored for a diamond discard. A diamond was led to the A and the heart 10 sent through to the Q. East returned a diamond to the K, and South followed this with the heart 8 to the A and the heart 9, making nine tricks all told.

After the clubs were set up, South played so that any tricks lost would be to East, who could not return a club. He lost a trick in each major that way, whereas he could not have afforded to lose even one trick to West, who would have clubbed his heart off.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

When Audrey had dressed she went along the beach and out along a jutting point of rocks joining Thomas Royde who was sitting there smoking a pipe, exactly opposite to Gull's Point which stood white and serene on the opposite side of the river.

Thomas turned his head at Audrey's approach, but he did not move. She sat down beside him without speaking. They were silent with the comfortable silence of two people who know each other very well indeed.

"How near it looks," said Audrey at last, breaking the silence.

Thomas looked across at Gull's Point.

"Yes, we could swim home."

"Not at this tide. There was a housemaid Camilla had once. She was an enthusiastic bather, used to swim across and back whenever the tide was right. It has to be low or high—but when it's running out it sweeps you right down to the mouth of the river. It did that to her one day—only luckily she kept her head and came ashore all right on Easter Point—only very exhausted."

"It doesn't say anything about its being dangerous here."

"It isn't this side. The current is the other side. It's deep there under the cliffs. There was a would-be suicide last year—threw himself off Stark Head, but he got caught by a tree half way down the cliff and the coast-guards got to him all right."

"Poor devil," said Thomas. "I bet he didn't think them. Must be sickening to have made up your mind to get out of it all and then be saved. Makes a fellow feel like a fool."

"Perhaps he's glad now," suggested Audrey dreamily.

"I wonder."

Thomas puffed away at his pipe. By turning his head very slightly he could look at Audrey. He noted her grave absorbed face as she stared across the water. The long brown lashes that rested on the pure line of her cheek, the small shell-like ear—

That reminded him of something. "Oh, by the way, I've got your earrings—the one you lost last night."

His fingers delved into his pocket. Audrey stretched out a hand.

"Oh, good, where did you find it?" On the terrace?

"No. It was near the stairs. You must have lost it as you came down to dinner. I noticed you hadn't got it at dinner."

"I'm glad to have it back."

She took it. Thomas reflected that it was rather a large barbaric earring for so small an ear. The ones she had on today were large, too.

He remarked:
"You wear your earrings even when you're out. Aren't you afraid of losing them?"

"Oh, these are very cheap things. I hate being without earrings because of this."

She touched her left ear. Thomas remembered.

"Oh, yes, that time old Bouncer bit you?"

Audrey nodded.

They were silent, reliving a childhood memory. Audrey Standish (as she then was) a long spindle-legged child, putting her face down on old Bouncer who had had a sore paw. A nasty bite, he had given her. She had had to have a stitch put in it. Not that there was much to show now—just the tiniest little scar.

"My dear girl," he said. "You can hardly see the mark. Why do you mind?"

Audrey paused before answering with evident sincerity.

"It's because—because I just can't bear a blemish."

Thomas nodded. It fitted in with his knowledge of Audrey—of her instinct for perfection. She was in herself so perfectly finished an article.

He said suddenly:
"You're far more beautiful than Kay."

She turned quickly.

"Oh, no, Thomas. Kay—Kay is really lovely."

"On the outside. Not underneath."

"Are you referring," said Audrey with faint amusement, "to my beautiful soul?"

Thomas knocked out the ashes of his pipe.

"No," he said. "I think I mean your bones."

Audrey laughed.

Thomas packed a new pipeful of tobacco. They were silent for quite a few minutes, but Thomas glanced at Audrey more than once though he did it so unobtrusively that she was unaware of it.

He said at last quietly:
"What's wrong, Audrey?"

"Wrong? What do you mean by wrong?"

"Wrong with you. There's something."

"No, there's nothing. Nothing at all."

"But there is."

She shook her head.

"What you tell me."

"There's nothing to tell."

"I suppose I'm being a chump—but I've got to say it—"

"Audrey—can't you forget about it? Can't you let it all go?"

She dug her small hands convulsively into the rock.

"You don't understand—you can't begin to understand."

"But, Audrey, my dear, I do. That's just it. I know."

She turned a small doubtful face to him.

"I know just exactly what you've been through. And—and what it must have meant to you."

She was very white now, white to the lips.

"I see," she said. "I didn't think anyone knew."

"Well, I do. I—I'm not going to talk about it. But what I want to impress upon you is that it's all over—it's past and done with."

She said in a low voice:
"Some things don't pass."

"Look here, Audrey, it's no good brooding and remembering. Granted you've been through Hell. It does no good to go over and over a thing in your mind. Look forward—not back. You're quite young. You've got your life to live and most of that life is in front of you. Think of tomorrow, not of yesterday."

She looked at him with a steady wide-eyed gaze that was singularly un-revealing of her real thoughts.

"And supposing," she said, "that I can't do that?"

"But you must."

Audrey said gently:
"I thought you didn't understand. I'm—I'm not quite normal about—some things, I suppose."

He broke in roughly:
"Rubbish. You—"

"I—what?"

"I was thinking of you as you were when you were a girl—before you married Neville. Why did you marry Neville?"

Audrey smiled.

"Because I fell in love with him."

"Yes, yes, I know that. But why did you fall in love with him? What attracted you to him so much?"

She crinkled her eyes as though trying to see through the eyes of a girl now dead.

"I think," she said, "it was because he was so 'positive.' He was so much the opposite of what I

Tunney Forgets Brief Case—in Right Place

Ex-Heavyweight Champ A Senate Possibility

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—There is some justice in the foolish world. And every piece of good luck ought to be reported. Therefore:

Gene Tunney, recently a commander in the United States Navy, came to Washington to attend the dinner honoring Vincent Flaherty. The handsome one-time heavyweight boxing champion carried a suit case and a brief case bursting with important papers.

Very important papers he meant to put into some permanent record of the war.

At Union station he was met by a big car and chauffeur sent by a most powerful friend . . . wait a second for the fellow's name!

JOB: RESULT OR CAUSE?

SECRETARY of the Treasury Fred M. Vinson, pleading before a House committee for enactment of the full employment bill, said:

"Full manpower resources at work will increase production 50 per cent beyond the 1940 level and prevent recurrence of a depression."

A writer in the New York Times, Henry Hazlitt, comments that adequate employment is a result, not a means, of production. It is full production we need to work for, and employment will follow. Full employment, Mr. Hazlitt reminds us, is easily arrived at arbitrarily. Chain gangs, Hitler's slave economy, China's rice farmers, the eras of child labor and 12-hour working days, all these achieved full employment. In the days of the WPA the most successful worker was the most inefficient, the one who spun out his task the longest, thereby increasing his hours of employment.

American industrialists, captains of free enterprise, hold the key to the much touted 50,000,000 or 60,000,000 jobs. If industry is freed from unnecessary government interference and unfair labor practices, including certain aspects of the strike epidemic, then jobs that are real jobs, the kind the American workers really want, will be forthcoming.

Perhaps America should pay some attention to the point of view expressed by Mr. Hazlitt.

RUBBLE HEAPS

ANNE O'Hara McCormick, writing from the wrecked city of Berlin, says what is left of it must be the biggest rubble heap in the world. It seems far larger than the ruins of Babylon and Nineveh which for thousands of years have set a standard for such wrecks.

It is a sobering thought that a replica of such a ruin today might be produced in an hour. That is to say, bombs may be substitutes for time. With the ever easier production and distribution of the powerful bombs now possible, spread by great flocks of airplanes, a city or even a whole country could be reduced in a few hours to the status of the cities mentioned. People might go underground like prairie dogs, but even that would not save them. What they need is common sense about peace.

BRAVE MEN

ALL will salute the brave wounded soldiers of McCloskey General Hospital at Temple, Tex., who minus arms or legs are playing baseball from wheel chairs. The diamond is a tennis court and the ball a volley ball, but the bat is regulation. One soldier fell from his chair while reaching for an outcurve, but all he said was, "chair straps should be standard equipment."

May these young men progress until they can play the real article!

WASHINGTON Report

Tunney Forgets Brief Case—in Right Place Ex-Heavyweight Champ A Senate Possibility

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—There is some justice in the foolish world. And every piece of good luck ought to be reported. Therefore:

Gene Tunney, recently a commander in the United States Navy, came to Washington to attend the dinner honoring Vincent Flaherty. The handsome one-time heavyweight boxing champion carried a suit case and a brief case bursting with important papers. Very important papers he meant to put into some permanent record of the war.

At Union station he was met by a big car and chauffeur sent by a most powerful friend . . . wait a second for the fellow's name!

As soon as Tunney reached the Flaherty banquet room he realized that he had left his bag and brief case in the car. But did he worry? Indeed, no! The owner of the car was—guess who? . . . Why it was that well known solver of mysteries and protector of the innocent, J. Edgar Hoover.

Before the Flaherty dinner had got down to the toastmaster's opening remarks, the suit case and the missing brief case had been returned to Tunney.

UP AND DOWN BROADWAY

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 — You might think it about time for a fractional decline in the juvenile hysteria that attends Frank Sinatra's annual engagements at the Paramount theater, but you couldn't prove it by what's going on there now. The fever is higher than ever, if that is possible.

The staff of the Paramount shudders whenever it sees Sinatra's name go up on the marquee. The employees know that as far as they are concerned the worst weeks of the year are ahead, no matter how high the box office receipts may go. Trying to cope with the teen-agers, who come early and stay late, is a hair-graying occupation.

The candy stand attendant was moaning low yesterday. Her business is excellent, of course, because a lot of the kids buy candy to sustain them through two or more shows so they won't have to go out and eat. But she's right where she can hear all of the screaming and shouting in the auditorium and the din gives her a constant headache.

It was almost impossible to enjoy the picture because of the Sinatra fans. They seemed to pay little attention to the film and during its run various cliques and individuals were talking back and forth, visiting and just generally passing the time until Frankie's appearance.

Real bedlam ensued when the singer took over the stage. The bobby-soxers stood up all over the place, growls shouted for them to sit down, there was excited screaming by girls and the end result was that Sinatra was darned near inaudible and invisible to a lot of the patrons.

The management has learned to be prepared for unhappy patrons. Those who leave in disgust because they can't enjoy the show get their money back without question. They're simply asked when they came in and if their answers indicate that they haven't had a chance to see the stage show the refund is made promptly. I saw more than a score make such collections in a short time.

It would seem that a lot of the spontaneity has gone out of the Sinatra demonstrations although they are as loud or louder than ever. You get the impression that a great deal of it is a result of the kids feeling that it is expected of them. One tall youth, possibly 18 years old, was among those who leaped to his feet in the auditorium during Frank's appearance. An exasperated customer behind him finally asked him to sit down and be quiet. He looked around reproachfully at the customer and said, "well, the rest of them are doing it aren't they?" He didn't sit down. The customer left.

Sinatra is holed up in the theater from about 9 a. m. to 11 p. m. Rarely does he attempt to go out between shows and when he does have to enter or leave the theater he no longer uses the customary stage door entrance on West Forty-Fourth street. He uses a private entrance on West Forty-Third. He's bearing up well. His stage poise is vastly superior to what it was a year ago. He doesn't let the antics bother him.

One of the persons who paid her way into the Paramount was Ruth Lowe, author of the famous song "I'll Never Smile Again," which had everyone weeping in his beer a few seasons back. Much to her surprise she found the Pied Pipers, a singing group in the stage show, using her

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WE ARE hearing more and more about rheumatic fever. One of the main symptoms of this condition is inflammation of the joints. This has caused many persons to look upon it as a local infection of the joints, but the symptoms of this disease indicate that it is a general infection.

According to Doctor Robert A. Black of Chicago, the principal symptoms include fatigue, which may be noticed by the teacher or mother. The child tires easily and usually is pale. His pulse rate is more rapid than normal, often ranging between 110 and 130, when the normal pulse rate in a child of seven to ten years of age is only about 90.

High Temperature

At the beginning of the infection, the temperature may be as high as 103 degrees. However, it soon returns to normal in the morning and rises to 99.2 or 100 degrees in the afternoon or evening. This type of fever may continue for months getting higher when the disease becomes more active. Poor appetite is a symptom which is often present. This may be improved by rest.

Often parents nag the child to eat but this does no good, and often makes the appetite worse. Another symptom which may be present is failure to gain weight, or even a loss of weight may occur.

Respiratory Infection

Children with rheumatic fever appear to be susceptible to respiratory infections such as colds or sore throat, and every effort must be made to prevent these infections, since that may cause the rheumatic fever to flare up. So-called growing pains which are described as aching in the legs, may be due to rheumatic fever, particularly if they occur at night and affect the thigh and calf of the leg. These pains usually disappear after the circulation is speeded up through some sort of physical activity.

The chief danger in rheumatic fever lies in the fact that it frequently leads to damage to the heart. Evidence of this damage may be only a heart murmur, which is an abnormal sound heard during the beating of the heart. At first the murmur may come and go, but later on it may become permanent.

Treating With Salicylates

In treating rheumatic fever the salicylates are frequently employed under the directions of the physician. Rest is also important. The salicylates, according to Doctor Black, should be administered daily for one month during and after each recurrent upper respiratory infection.

Sulfonamide drugs may also be used to aid in the prevention of respiratory infections in certain instances.

Whenever symptoms like those of rheumatic fever occur there should be no delay in having the child carefully studied to determine if the disorder is present so that it may be properly treated.

"The Authority on Authorities"

PROPER PLAY of many No Trump hands is a good deal like the reading of captions under group pictures in newspapers. It is largely from left to right, in the correct parts. That is usually the opening leader, at the declarer's left, starts his long suit and comes pretty close to getting it set up. If that occurs, then any secondary finesses, against queens or jacks, should usually be taken from the left to right. The idea is that, if the man at the right wins such a finesse, he may be unable to return the suit which is established in his partner's hand.

If South had opened with 1-No Trump when vulnerable, his bid would have shown North enough to hop directly to game. The pair was using somewhat weaker No Trumps when not vulnerable, so North merely had a strong single raise, and South went the rest of the way on his surplus strength. He really had enough for a vulnerable No Trump bid.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

When Audrey had dressed she went along the beach and out along a jutting point of rocks joining Thomas Royde who was sitting there smoking a pipe, exactly opposite to Gull's Point which stood white and serene on the opposite side of the river.

Thomas turned his head at Audrey's approach, but he did not move. She sat down beside him without speaking. They were silent with the comfortable silence of two people who know each other very well indeed.

"How near it looks," said Audrey at last, breaking the silence.

Thomas looked across at Gull's Point.

"Yes, we could swim home."

"Not at this tide. There was a housemaid Camilla had once. She was an enthusiastic bather, used to swim across and back whenever the tide was right. It has to be low or high—but when it's running out it sweeps you right down to the mouth of the river. It did that to her one day—only luckily she kept her head and came ashore all right on Easter Point—only very exhausted."

"It doesn't say anything about its being dangerous here."

"It isn't this side. The current is the other side. It's deep there under the cliffs. There was a would-be suicide last year—threw himself off Stark Head—but he got caught by a tree half way down the cliff and the coast-guard got to him all right."

"Poor devil," said Thomas. "I bet he didn't thank them. Must be sickening to have made up your mind to get out of it all and then be saved. Makes a fellow feel like a fool."

"Perhaps he's glad now," suggested Audrey dreamily.

Thomas puffed away at his pipe. By turning his head very slightly he could look at Audrey. He noted her grave absorbed face as she stared across the water. The long brown lashes that rested on the pure line of her cheek, the small shell-like ear—

That reminded him of something. "Oh, by the way, I've got your earrings—the one you lost last night."

His fingers delved into his pocket. Audrey stretched out a hand.

"Oh, good, where did you find it? On the terrace?"

"No. It was near the stairs. You must have lost it as you came down to dinner. I noticed you hadn't got it at dinner."

"I'm glad to have it back."

She took it. Thomas reflected that it was rather a large barbaric earring for so small an ear. The ones she had on today were large, too.

He remarked:

"You wear your earrings even when you bathe. Aren't you afraid of losing them?"

"Oh, these are very cheap things. I hate being without earrings because of this."

She touched her left ear. Thomas remembered.

"Oh, yes, that time old Bouncer bit you?"

Audrey nodded.

They were silent, reliving a childish memory. Audrey (standing as she then was) a long spindle-legged child, putting her face down on old Bouncer who had had a sore paw. A nasty bite, he had given her. She had had to have a stitch put in it. Not that there was much to show now—just the tiniest little scar.

"My dear girl," he said. "You can hardly see the mark. Why do you mind?"

Audrey paused before answering with evident sincerity.

"Because I do. I—I'm not going to talk about it. But what I want to impress upon you is that it's all over—it's past and done with."

She said in a low voice:

"Some things don't pass."

"Look here, Audrey, it's no good brooding and remembering. Granted you've been through Hell. It does no good to go over and over a thing in your mind. Look forward—not back. You're quite young. You've got your life to live and most of that life is in front of you. Think of tomorrow, not of yesterday."

She looked at him with a steady wide-eyed gaze that was singularly unrelenting of her real thoughts.

"And supposing," she said, "that I can't do that?"

"But you must."

Audrey said gently:

"I thought you didn't understand. I'm—I'm not quite normal about—some things, I suppose."

He broke in roughly:

"Rubbish. You—He stopped."

"I—what?"

"I was thinking of you as you were when you were a girl—before you married Neville. Why did you marry Neville?"

Audrey smiled.

"Because I fell in love with him."

"Yes, yes, I know that. But why did you fall in love with him? What attracted you to him so much?"

She crinkled her eyes as though trying to see through the eyes of a girl now dead.

"I think," she said, "it was because he was so 'positive.' He was so much the opposite of what I

"It's because—because I just can't bear a blemish."

Thomas nodded. It fitted in with his knowledge of Audrey—of her instinct for perfection. She was in herself so perfectly finished an article.

He said suddenly:

"You're far more beautiful than Kay."

She turned quickly.

"Oh, no, Thomas. Kay—Kay is really lovely."

"On the outside. Not underneath."

"Are you referring," said Audrey with faint amusement, "to my beautiful soul?"

Thomas knocked out the ashes of his pipe.

"No," he said. "I think I mean your bones."

Audrey laughed.

Thomas packed a new pipeful of tobacco. They were silent for quite five minutes, but Thomas glanced at Audrey more than once though he did it so unobtrusively that she was unaware of it.

He said at last quietly:

"What's wrong, Audrey?"

"Wrong? What do you mean by wrong?"

"Wrong with you. There's something."

"No, there's nothing. Nothing at all."

"But there is."

She shook her head.

"Won't you tell me?"

"There's nothing to tell."

"I suppose I'm being a chump—but I've got to say it—I've paused."

"Audrey—can't you forget about it? Can't you let it all go?"

She dug her small hands convulsively into the rock.

"You don't understand—you can't begin to understand."

"But, Audrey, my dear, I do. That's just it. I know."

She turned a small doubtful face to him.

"I know just exactly what you've been through. And—and what it must have meant to you."

She was very white now, white to the lips.

"I see," she said. "I didn't think—anyone knew."

"Well, I do. I—I'm not going to talk about it. But what I want to impress upon you is that it's all over—it's past and done with."

She said in a low voice:

"Some things don't pass."

"Look here, Audrey, it's no good brooding and remembering. Granted you've been through Hell. It does no good to go over and over a thing in your mind. Look forward—not back. You're quite young. He broke in roughly:

"Rubbish. You—He stopped."

"I—what?"

"I was thinking of you as you were when you were a girl—before you married Neville. Why did you marry Neville?"

Audrey smiled.

"Because I fell in love with him."

"Yes, yes, I know that. But why did you fall in love with him? What attracted you to him so much?"

She crinkled her eyes as though trying to see through the eyes of a girl now dead.

"I think," she said, "it was because he was so 'positive.' He was so much the opposite of what I was, myself. I always felt shadowy—not quite real. Neville was very real. And so happy and sure of himself and so—everything that I was not." She added with a smile:

"And very good looking."

Thomas Royde said bitterly:

"Yes, the ideal Englishman—good at sport, modest, goodlooking, always the little pukka sahib—getting everything he wanted all along the line."

Audrey sat very upright and stared at him.

"You hate him," she said slowly.

"You hate him very much, don't you?"

He avoided her eyes, turning away to cup a match in his hands as he reilt the pipe that had gone out.

"Wouldn't it be surprising if I did, would it?" he said indistinctly.

"He's got everything that I haven't. He can play games, and swim and dance, and talk. And I'm a tongue-tied out with a crippled arm. He's always been brilliant and successful and I've always been a dull dog. And he married the only girl I ever cared for."

She made a faint sound. He said savagely:

"You've always known that, haven't you? You knew I cared about you ever since you were 15. You know that I still care—"

Dropping in at the Roosevelt grill I caught Guy Lombardo's band playing a new number that is so sure-fire you can make book on it. The name is "Just Like Old Times." One of those things you remember the first time you hear it—words simple and sentimental, tune made to order. No one else has it yet and it won't be published until Guy's band gets it onto a record sometime this week.

Lombardo naturally got first crack at it because the lyric is by brother Carmen Lombardo. Johnny Loeb did the music. Guy said he practically had to fight the two of them to get the song because when they showed it to him they actually were trying to sell him what they considered a "great number, a poetic, involved piece which the bandleader dismissed as pure "dog."

In popular music it's still the simple stuff that pays off.

number and learned later that the publisher is going to give it a revival campaign. She's happily married now, has a son, lives the quiet life of a housewife in Canada and doesn't miss the hectic Tin Pan alley life.

Dropping in at the Roosevelt grill I caught Guy Lombardo's band playing a new number that is so sure-fire you can make book on it. The name is "Just Like Old Times." One of those things you remember the first time you hear it—words simple and sentimental, tune made to order. No one else has it yet and it won't be published until Guy's band sets it onto a record sometime this week.

Lombardo naturally got first crack at it because the lyric is by brother Carmen Lombardo. Johnny Loeb did the music. Guy said he practically had to fight the two of them to get the song because when they showed it to him they actually were trying to sell him what they considered a great number, a poetic, involved piece which the bandleader dismissed as pure "dog."

In popular music it's still the simple stuff that pays off.

CZAR CHANDLER MAKES NO COMMENT ON PROTEST

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ky., Nov. 14—Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler had no comment today on a reported protest by Negro leagues on signing of Jackie Robinson for Montreal.

The Negro leagues reportedly protested the manner of Robinson's signing as piracy because Branch Rickey, president of Montreal's parent Brooklyn Dodgers, did not consult Robinson's club, the Kansas City Monarchs, before signing the Negro star.

Chandler said "the matter has not been presented as a case to my office."

Pfc. Walter Schiele and wife of Columbus spent the weekend at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Delong and attended church services at the Lutheran church in Tarleton last Sunday morning.

Jessop, a 19-year-old kid from Nibley, Utah, has ridden 267 winners to date this year and has more than a month and a half of the season remaining to break the modern record of 301 winners set by Jackie Westrope in 1938.

A pug-nosed youth who "loves to ride 'em," Jessop kicked home four winners yesterday to boost his total for the Sportsman's park meet to 59. Two of his first-place rides yesterday were favorites, but the other two were outsiders. They were Bert Bagley's Bengal Boy and C. E. Davidson's Infinity G, which paid $24.40 and $19.40 respectively. Jessop accepted mounts in all eight races, finishing out of the money twice and third twice.

CMDR. HAGBERG 'COACH OF WEEK'

Navy Mentor Says Team Is Improving, Will Be In Top Form For Army

NEW YORK, Nov. 14—They called his players "fumblebuns," showing a fine disdain for an unbeaten football team that had conquered some of the best squads in the land.

Today he's the United Press coach of the week, Cmdr. Oscar E. (Swede) Hagberg, the handsome, forthright boss of Navy's mighty midshipmen.

And now that the boys are clicking, hitting their high mark by beating Michigan, 33 to 7 which topped Army's 28 to 7 margin over the same club, Hagberg might well be expected to take a bow, but he isn't built that way. Shouldering the blame for deficiencies, he passed the credit for that great triumph on to his players and assistant coaches.

There isn't a player on the squad who doesn't know exactly how he stands with "the boss" and though he may be evasive about the outcome of forthcoming games, he never is guilty of the "double talk" device of some of his coaching colleagues. About Wisconsin, Navy's opponent for Saturday, he says that "if we lose it will not be because we are overly self-confident."

Since Navy is rated about a four-touchdown favorite over the Badgers there has been a feeling that the Midshipmen might suffer a letdown after their peak performance against Michigan. But Hagberg doesn't think so. He thinks the team is improving week by week and that it will be at its peak for the "game of the century" with the Army Cadets, and that's the one that he wants to win most of all, because it will be his last as skipper of the Middies.

JOCKEY JESSOP SEEKS ALL-TIME WIN RECORD

CHICAGO, Nov. 14—Job Dean Jessop, the nation's leading rider, went to the paddock at Sportsman's park today with an eye toward cracking the modern all-time winning record for jockeys.

Jessop, a 19-year-old kid from Nibley, Utah, has ridden 267 winners to date this year and has more than a month and a half of the season remaining to break the modern record of 301 winners set by Jackie Westrope in 1938.

A pug-nosed youth who "loves to ride 'em," Jessop kicked home four winners yesterday to boost his total for the Sportsman's park meet to 59. LARRY MacPHAIL INDICTED ON CHARGES OF ASSAULT

BEL AIR, Md., Nov. 14—Larry MacPhail, president of the New York Yankees and owner of an estate here, was indicted on two counts of assault and one of disorderly conduct last night by a Harford county grand jury.

MacPhail was charged with striking Mrs. Anna Towner, chief operator of the Bel Air telephone exchange, and Thomas Dwyer, exchange business manager, when he could not place a call during a long-distance operators' strike October 5.

A trial date will be set Monday.

In a single week recently, La Guardia Field handled such diverse cargo items as monkeys from the South Pacific, emergency serum, a pet pelican, and a macaw, spinal fluid for the Army medical schools, rare butterflies, stamp collections, and fur coats.

GOPHER SQUAD OUT FOR DRILLS AFTER LAY OFF

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 14—The Minnesota football team, runners-up for last place in the Big Ten race, turned out for practice, en masse today and termed reports of dissonance among the Gophers nothing more than a "misunderstanding."

The rumor, based on demoralization following Saturday's 49 to 0 drubbing from Indiana, spread like wildfire when only four regulars showed up for a Monday night practice session.

The entire first string, including halfback Tom Gates and Guard Bob Hanzlik, who were injured last week, showed up in uniform yesterday and scoffed at reports that squad members were in revolt.

Judd Ringer, a former Marine lieutenant holding down an end position, said Monday's poor showing was largely due to a misunderstanding because of the Armistice day holiday. Some players went home for the weekend some went hunting and others had excuses from Coach Bernie Bierman. Ringer, an all-conference end in 1941, told reporters, "you can bet I'll be out there barreling for the rest of the season if Bierman lets me." In the past, seniors on the squad ordinarily did not turn out for Monday practice.

Bierman, himself, was reticent about discussing the matter, nodding only at the sound to say, "they're here, aren't they?"

Billions of dollars worth of every describable kind of surplus from pins to railroad system must be sold or given away abroad, since none of it will be brought back to the United States, according to Distribution Age.

RADIO NEWS NOTES

Last year when Roy Acuff and his Smoky Mountain Boys were in Hollywood, and radio picked them up from there to join in with the rest of the Saturday night "Grand Ole Opry" program, a slight delay sometimes occurred in making the switch-over. This will not happen this time, as two direct wires will remain open between the two points for the full thirty minutes, allowing instant communication each way at all times.

Ted Malone, now girdling the world in "The Globester" while continuing his Monday through Friday broadcasts has a neat description of Japan, 1945: "A rather unimportant group of Pacific islands completely surrounded by the U. S. Navy."

Not long ago Bob Graham, singer on "The Baby Snooks Show," heard Sundays, was approached by Starmaker Eddie Cantor, who wanted to sign him to a long-term contract. At the time Bob refused ed on the ground that he was not ready yet. A smiling visitor at the premiere performance of "The Baby Snooks Show" was Eddie Cantor who, listening to Bob vocalizing and the signs of approval from the studio audience, realized his faith in Bob was justified.

A construction engineer, in his spare time, as well as a radio engineer during working hours is Sam Lane of the series, "Two on a Clue." He has designed and built an elaborate danger swing for his children and is currently making them a small wading pool in the back yard.

Regular visitor to the Antiques Show now in New York is Lucille Wall, star of the series, "Portia Faces Life." She's an avid collector of Eighteenth Century English furniture, and is a tireless shopper for bargains in an original Sheraton and Chippendale for her New York apartment.

Ted Lewis Park Gets $4,000 From Successful Pumpkin Show

FINAL REPORT SHOWS LARGE PROFIT MADE

Plans Made To Stage Another Show Next Year; $4,664.65 Profit Reported

The 1945 Pumpkin Show has turned out to be much more of a success than had been originally estimated. According to the final report submitted by Robert Colville, $4,000 will be paid to the city of Circleville earmarked for improvement of Ted Lewis Park.

At the final meeting of the Pumpkin Show committee plans were discussed to set up a permanent organization to handle next year's Show and to conduct the Pumpkin Show year in and year out. All the "workhorses" of the 1945 Show who were present were enthusiastically looking forward to a bigger and better Show next year.

"The next Pumpkin Show is only 48 weeks away," Mr. Colville exclaimed joyfully.

A profit of $4,664.65 was reported in the final accounting for the 1945 Show. Of this amount $4,000 has been ordered to the city to pay for the park improvements and the rest earmarked as a starter for next year's Show. Receipts totaled $8,420.52 and expenditures, $3,755.87.

Receipts were as follows: donations from merchants and businesses, $1,589; concessions, $4,163; rides, $2,401.38; refunds from chairmen, $87.94; sale of pumpkins, $42.45, and sale of turkeys, $136.75.

Expenditures were as follows: labor and watchmen, $339.50; premiums, $508.75; judges, $4; bands, $447.55; free acts, $325; advertising, $236.99; parades, $291.50; police and traffic directors, $428.75; expense of directors, $107.06; loud speaker (high school), $68; bills paid for Park commission, $451.98; supplies, $163.34; printing, insurance (liability and compensation), $134; rent (tents), $50, and salaries, $150.

NEW FIGHTER PLANE MAKES PUBLIC DEBUT

SEATTLE, Nov. 14 — A new single-engine fighter plane, described as the first aircraft designed with contra-rotating propellers and capable of traveling "considerably in excess of 450 miles an hour," was unveiled today by the Boeing Aircraft company.

The most novel feature of the XF88, an armored, stub-nosed aircraft which can be a fighter, torpedo plane, bomber, attack plane, or interceptor, are contra-rotating 13½-foot propellers driven by a 28-cylinder 3,600-horsepower Pratt and Whitney aircooled engine.

The plane can carry a 6,400-pound bomb or two one-ton torpedoes and attain a ceiling comparable to that of the Superfortress.

Devices facilitating a quick complete engine change, a completely retractable tail wheel and arrestor, and radio equipment easily installed or removed as a unit are among other innovations.

Already test-flown more than 100 hours, the XF88 mounts six 20-millimeter cannon in its wing. The cannon, interchangeable with six 50-caliber machineguns, are sighted by remote control.

BIG CHIEF ROBIN HOOD
DOVER N. H.—Robin Hood traditionally haunts the forests of Nottinghamshire in England, but America has a Robin Hood of its own who proved his existence on an official slip of paper.

On the bottom of the deed of transfer of the Dover territory to the early settlers by the Indians, there appears the signature "Ould Robin Hood." He has been identified as the Indian chieftain in that area.

GARBAGE PLANS ARE ANNOUNCED

Jaycees Plan To Complete Project To Start City Collection

Garbage collection in Circleville will start by early Spring, Frank Wantz, president, announced at the Junior Chamber of Commerce meeting Tuesday.

Plans to complete the garbage collection project are being made and it is planned to carry the project through. Any subscription held in escrow account will be dated as of the start of the garbage collection, he said.

A report by the dance committee on the Thanksgiving dance to be held, an outline of a three-phase Christmas program by Boyd Stout, a suggestion that an employment bureau be set up for Boy Scouts by Richard Morris and an announcement that the Jaycees would again canvass the southeastern section of the city in the Victory loan drive, were among the items of business which were discussed at the luncheon meeting in Hanley's Tea Room.

Mr. Morris suggested that the employment bureau be set up for the Scouts of Circleville to help them get jobs, money paid for labor to go towards purchase of uniforms and other equipment.

The Australian parliament plans to broadcast its debates. Sounds more like a threat than a promise.

The highest price ever paid for a Polled Shorthorn bull was paid to Paul W. Teegardin, owner of the Oakwood farm at Ashville, according to Clinton K. Tomson, Chicago, secretary of the American Polled Shorthorn Breeders' Association.

At the auction Monday on the Oakwood farm, $4,700 was paid for Teegardin's 3-year-old prize bull, "Oakwood Command," by M. L. Boyle of Chicago, representative of James Scrymgeour, Warwick, Queensland, Australia.

A record was also set for this country in price paid for a herd of Shorthorn cattle. Forty-nine head of purebred stock brought a total of $45,260 as more than 500 buyers from 23 states bid on the cattle raised by Mr. Teegardin.

Ted Lewis Park Gets $4,000 From Successful Pumpkin Show

FINAL REPORT SHOWS LARGE PROFIT MADE

Plans Made To Stage Another Show Next Year; $4,664.65 Profit Reported

The 1945 Pumpkin Show has turned out to be much more of a success than had been originally estimated. According to the final report submitted by Robert Colville, $4,000 will be paid to the city of Circleville earmarked for improvement of Ted Lewis Park.

At the final meeting of the Pumpkin Show committee plans were discussed to set up a permanent organization to handle next year's show and to conduct the Pumpkin Show year in and year out. All the "workhorses" of the 1945 Show who were present were enthusiastically looking forward to a bigger and better show next year.

"The next Pumpkin Show is only 48 weeks away," Mr. Colville exclaimed joyfully.

A profit of $4,664.65 was reported in the final accounting for the 1945 Show. Of this amount $4,000 has been ordered to the city to pay for the park improvements and the rest earmarked as a starter for next year's show. Receipts totaled $8,420.52 and expenditures, $3,755.87.

Receipts were as follows: donations from merchants and businesses, $1,589; concessions, $4,163; rides, $2,401.38; refunds from chairmen, $87.94; sale of pumpkins, $42.45, and sale of turkeys, $136.75.

Expenditures were as follows: labor and watchmen, $339.50; premiums, $508.75; judges, $4; bands, $447.55; free acts, $325; advertising, $236.99; parades, $291.50; police and traffic directors, $428.75; expense of directors, $107.06; loud speaker (high school), $68; bills paid for Park commission, $431.98; supplies, $163.34; printing, insurance (liability and compensation), $134; rent (tents), $50, and salaries, $150.

NEW FIGHTER PLANE MAKES PUBLIC DEBUT

SEATTLE, Nov. 14 — A new single-engine fighter plane, described as the first aircraft designed with contra-rotating propellers and capable of traveling "considerably in excess of 450 miles an hour," was unveiled today by the Boeing Aircraft company.

The most novel feature of the XF88, an armored, stub-nosed aircraft which can be a fighter, torpedo plane, bomber, attack plane, or interceptor, are contra-rotating 13½-foot propellers driven by a 28-cylinder 3,600-horsepower Pratt and Whitney aircooled engine.

The plane can carry a 6,400-pound bomb or two one-ton torpedoes and attain a ceiling comparable to that of the Superfortress.

Devices facilitating a quick complete engine change, a completely retractable tail wheel and arrestor, and radio equipment easily installed or removed as a unit are among other innovations.

Already test-flown more than 100 hours, the XF88 mounts six 20-millimeter cannon in its wing. The cannon, interchangeable with six 50-caliber machineguns, are sighted by remote control.

BIG CHIEF ROBIN HOOD
DOVER N. H.—Robin Hood traditionally haunts the forests of Nottinghamshire in England, but America has a Robin Hood of its own who proved his existence on an official slip of paper.

On the bottom of the deed of transfer of the Dover territory to the early settlers by the Indians, there appears the signature "Ould Robin Hood." He has been identified as the Indian chieftain in that area.

GARBAGE PLANS ARE ANNOUNCED

Jaycees Plan To Complete Project To Start City Collection

Garbage collection in Circleville will start by early Spring, Frank Wantz, president, announced at the Junior Chamber of Commerce meeting Tuesday.

Plans to complete the garbage collection project are being made and it is planned to carry the project through. Any subscription held in escrow account will be dated as of the start of the garbage collection, he said.

A report by the dance committee on the Thanksgiving dance to be held, an outline of a three-phase Christmas program by Boyd Stout, a suggestion that an employment bureau be set up for Boy Scouts by Richard Morris and an announcement that the Jaycees would again canvass the southeastern section of the city in the Victory loan drive, were among the items of business which were discussed at the luncheon meeting in Hanley's Tea Room.

Mr. Morris suggested that the employment bureau be set up for the Scouts of Circleville to help them get jobs, money paid for labor to go towards purchase of uniforms and other equipment.

The Australian parliament plans to broadcast its debates. Sounds more like a threat than a promise.

The highest price ever paid for a Polled Shorthorn bull was paid to Paul W. Teegardin, owner of the Oakwood farm at Ashville, according to Clinton K. Tomson, Chicago, secretary of the American Polled Shorthorn Breeders' Association.

At the auction Monday on the Oakwood farm, $4,700 was paid for Teegardin's 3-year-old prize bull, "Oakwood Command," by M. L. Boyle of Chicago, representative of James Scrymgeour, Warwick, Queensland, Australia.

A record was also set for this
